

Choosing A Cheap Car Rental

There are a few points to consider on your vacation when you decide to shop for a cheap car rental from any car rental agency. Making the wrong decision when it comes to transportation could be the difference between a wonderful vacation and a horrible experience.

There are many car rental agencies that will offer discount car rentals, often based on the age of the vehicle, the condition of the vehicle, and other minor details. You shouldn't be sacrificing safety along with comfort. The vehicle you choose to rent will most likely be in satisfactory driving condition--it just might have some scratches and scrapes, and the interior might not look as new. Just because the car has a few miles on it, doesn't mean that the car rental agency hasn't given it proper safety and mechanical inspections.

Now most reputable car rental companies wouldn't be in business very long if they rented you a clunker that was likely to break down on you, but always go with a rental agency that has a good reputation if you decide to go on the cheap. And it's good to know that they will likely give you a better rate for a cheap car rental if you rent your car for a longer period of time.

Just remember that it's your holiday. If you're going to be frugal, just be certain you're making the right car rental choice. A coupe or a van will probably get you there the same way as the new Mustang.